Health Care in Canada

In Canada, healthcare is a right afforded to residents as described under the Canada Health Act.

The Canada Health Act describes healthcare policy as the duty to:

“protect, promote and restore physical and mental well-being of residents of Canada and to facilitate reasonable access to health services without financial or other barriers”

The Canada Health Act 1984, c. 6 s. 3.

Health system delivery is the responsibility of individual provinces and territories.

Health Care in New Brunswick

In New Brunswick, health professionals and the care they provide, are governed under provincial Acts. These acts are either public or private acts.

Private acts related to health care are proposed by an organization or group for the purpose of self regulation and are introduced by a Member of the Legislative Assembly (MLA) who is not a cabinet minister.

Public acts are usually related to a matter of public policy and are prepared and introduced by a Minister in cabinet (executive branch of the government).

The Department of Health funds health care. The Regional Health Authorities administer health care programs. These publicly funded programs are covered under Medicare. Midwifery is publicly funded.

History of MCNB

1996 - 2006: Background work was being done on midwifery.

May 2007, the Minister of Health Hon. Michael Murphy, announced the New Brunswick's Government intention to integrate midwifery services in the provincial healthcare system.

Primary factors supporting this decision were :

- A desire to enhance access to quality primary maternity care for New Brunswick women;
- Increasing interest in midwifery services by New Brunswick women;
- Increasing C-section rates and low breastfeeding rates;
- Declining numbers of family physicians practicing obstetrical care;
- Increasing recruitment challenges for obstetrician/gynecologist specialists.

History

June 2007, the Department of Health established a Midwifery Stakeholder Committee to advise the Department on midwifery legislation.

October 2007, the Midwifery Stakeholder Committee presented their report containing findings and recommendations to the Minister. Recommendations were on the following key elements :

- ✓ Scope of practice of midwives
- ✓ Form of regulatory body
- ✓ Entry into practice requirements
- ✓ Protected titles for midwives

2010: Proclamation of the Midwifery Act and creation of the Midwifery Council operated by the Department of Health. Midwifery became recognized as a regulated publicly funded health profession in NB. From that point on, government started to explore ways to incorporate midwives into the healthcare system.

History

2013: Midwifery Council activities halted as Government funding suspended.

2014: New Government Platform Commitment announced. The Midwifery Council was reinstated and once again operated by the Department of Health.

Spring 2015: Department of Health Implementation Committee was established. Action plan developed to address the following responsibilities; legislation, human resources, ambulance services, evaluation, RHA selection, communication plan, financing, September 2015 - November 2016: Midwives are to be employees of the RHA and unionized with the New Brunswick Union of Public and Private Employees (NBUPPE), consequential amendments approved, RHA By-laws ready for approval. Midwifery Council hires independent Registrar - Kelly Ebbett. Council remains funded by a grant-agreement with the Government and operates at arm's length.

December 2016: Demonstration site announced by Hon. Minister of Health Victor Boudreau for Fredericton, under the management of Horizon Health Network. Four midwives to be hired and implemented into the health care system in 2017.

Role of the Regulator versus the Role of the Association

Regulator (MCNB)	Association (MANB)
Acts in the interest of the Public.	Acts in interest of the midwives.
Governed by an interprofessional Council including midwives and public members.	Governed by a board of directors consisting of only midwives.
Protects public by regulating members to ensure provision of safe, effective, quality care.	Supports midwife members by advocating for increased midwifery services and funding by lobbying the Government.
Works in collaboration with Government by engaging in regulatory process and strategic planning in the public interest.

Council Composition

Council composition and terms are set out in the Midwifery Act.

All members are appointed by Government. The Council Chair is elected from within Council and may be a midwife or public member in accordance with the By-Laws.

- 2 Professional Members (Midwives)
- 3 Professional Members from other disciplines (a physician, a pharmacist and a nurse)
- 1 Department of Health member
- 1 Public Member

Professional and public members provide valuable perspectives and professional expertise to regulatory discussions and decisions of the Council.

- A Council term consists of three years and up to a maximum of two consecutive terms (six years).

Council Members and Roles

Council Members: are appointed by Government. Their roles are outlined in the MCNB Position Description for Council members. These include; regular attendance at meetings in order to ensure quorum, participation in Council work, fiduciary duty, and confidentiality.

Chair of Council: is elected yearly at the annual general meeting by Council members. The Chair ensures the integrity of Council's processes and, where appropriate, represents Council to outside parties - as outlined in the MCNB Guidelines Chairperson. The Chair works closely with the Registrar/Executive Director. The Chair can be a professional or public member of the Council.

Registrar/Executive Director

The Registrar/Executive Director is a dual position, the sole employee of the Council, a non-voting member and accountable to the Council and employed 3 days a week.

As Registrar, the role pertains to registration and complaint processes.

As Executive Director, the role pertains to the administrative/financial details and manages operations. The Executive Director is responsible for leading the Council in fulfilling their statutory responsibilities and implementing strategic goals as directed by the Council.

Duties of the Registrar/Executive Director

- Daily operations of the Council.
 - Registrations and renewals.
 - Preparation of bi-monthly Council meetings and the Annual General Meeting.
 - Preparation and submission to Government of the MCNB Annual Report and Budget.

For more information, please see the Terms of Reference and/or Professional Complaints Manual.

Additional committees or working groups can be formed to serve additional regulatory functions of the Council.

Fiduciary Duty

Council and committee members have the duty of undivided loyalty and diligence to the Council and its public interest mandate.

Avoidance of conflict of interest and bias
Confidentiality and privacy obligations
Behaving ethically and respectfully

It is important to note that most Council members are involved in various professional and community organizations - in other words “wearing many hats”. Therefore, an awareness of their responsibility to adhere to the Midwifery Council process and its mandate for the duration of their appointed term is required.

The expectation is that all members act honestly, in good faith and with a view to the best interests of the public.

Confidentiality

All information obtained by individuals governing or administering Council work is presumed confidential unless deemed otherwise, or a matter of public record.

This is mandated by the Midwifery Act and the MCNB Policy on Confidentiality.

Conflict of Interest

“Council and committee members must avoid circumstances where a conflict of interest or bias might compromise, or appear to compromise, the integrity or impartiality of the Council. Members ensure that the public interest is considered and takes priority over the interests of the midwifery or any other profession, or of a member of that profession.

Given the legislated work as mandated by the Midwifery Act, the composition of Council, and the vision and mission of MCNB, it is likely that conflicts of interest will arise from time to time .

Disclosing conflicts of interest or potential conflicts of interest is not an admission of wrongdoing when shared at the time of awareness and is encouraged so that a strong decision can be reached by Council and in the best interest of the public .

Decisions made as a Council or committee should not be affected or be perceived to be affected by personal/professional gain or interest. Council and committee members should endeavor to keep distinct and separate any other memberships, directorships, volunteer, paid positions or affiliations from work undertaken as a member of the Council.”

MCNB Policy Conflict of Interest (2020)

Speaking with one voice

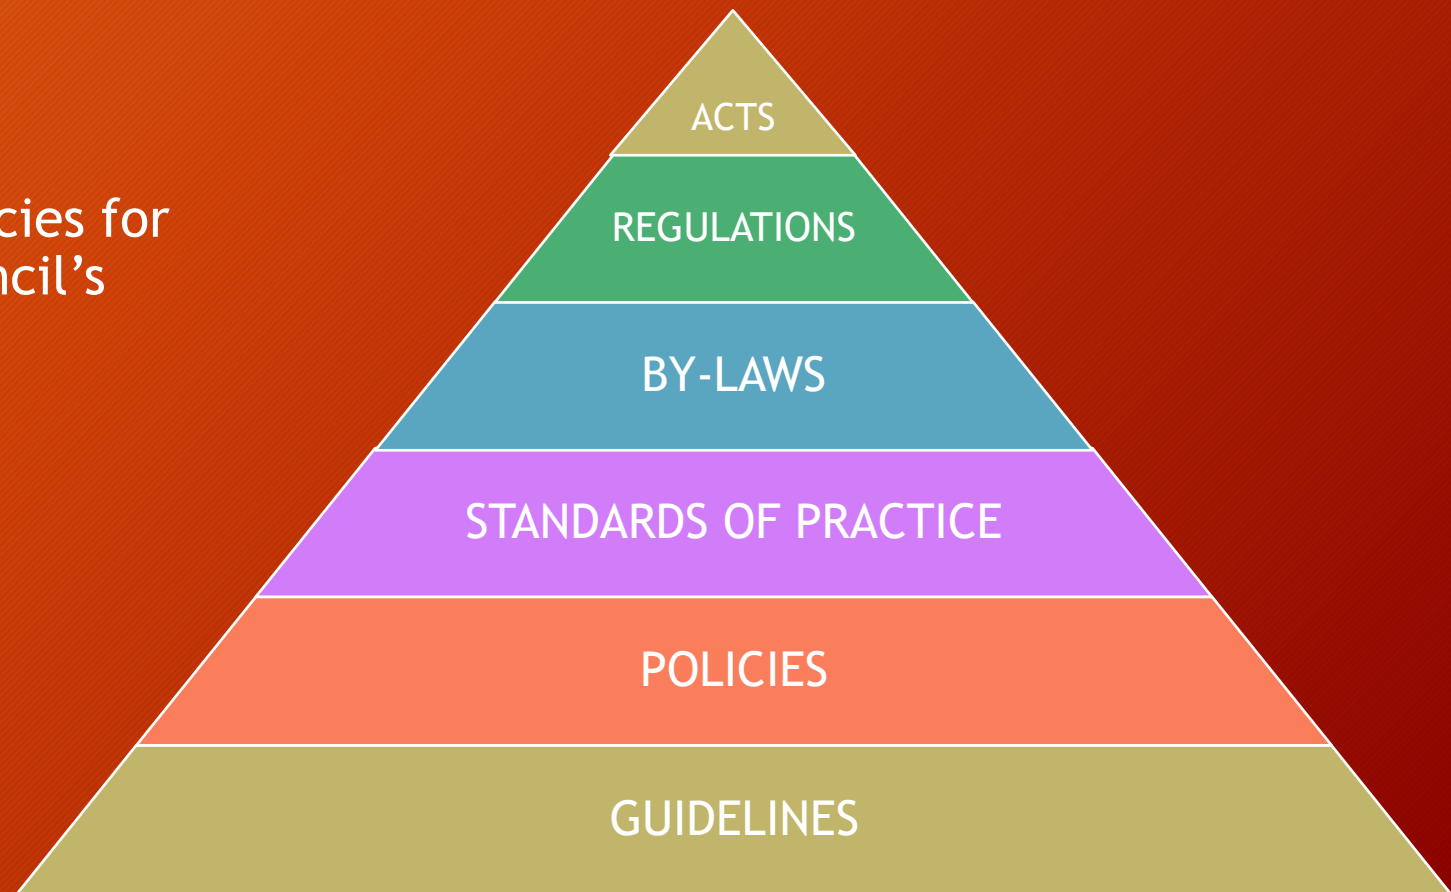

Council & committee members do not represent themselves in any official capacity to external media or on social communications platforms. As per MCNB by-laws, the Council Chair and Registrar/Executive Director are the official spokespeople of the Council.

The individual perspectives of Council and committee members are encouraged during the decision-making process, but once a final decision is made, the collective voice of the Council takes precedence.

Speaking with “one voice” ensures communications regarding Council decisions and activities are clear, consistent and coordinated.

Governance

Developing by-laws, standards and policies for the midwifery profession is one of Council's core regulatory functions.

Midwifery Act and Regulations

The Midwifery Act - S.N.B. 2008, c. M-11.5

When the NB Midwifery Act was drafted, it was done so as a public Act. This is likely because there was no established professional body ready and able to govern the profession.

Under the Midwifery Act, additional rules called regulations exist that contribute to the regulation of the midwifery profession.

Self-Regulation

Self-regulation means that the government has delegated its regulatory authority to a body that has the specialized knowledge required to do the job. These regulatory bodies are called Colleges or Councils.

A self-regulating profession protects the public by setting out standards of competency and conduct, and ensures members meet the standards.

Most health professions in New Brunswick (and nationally) are self-regulated and are governed under private acts.

Regulating in the Public Interest

The Midwifery Council of New Brunswick has the duty to regulate the profession of midwifery in accordance with the Midwifery Act and in the public interest.

The desired outcome is that the public, when choosing midwifery care, can trust that they will receive ethical care from registered midwives who are competent, skilled and qualified to practise.

Title Protection

Under the Midwifery Act, registration with the Council allows access to a "restricted title".

“A person whose name is not entered in the active practice register shall not practise as a midwife or hold herself or himself out as a midwife, or take or use the designation “midwife”, “registered midwife” or “sagefemme” or “sage-femme inscrite” or other initials or designations, either alone or in combination with other words, letters or description, that imply the person is entitled to practise as a midwife.” Midwifery Act, S.N.B. 2008, c. M-11.5

By-Laws

MCNB By-laws are the rules that govern how the Council operates. They mostly deal with internal or administrative matters.

In order to amend the by-laws the following is required:

- ✓ Proposal at the AGM or by calling a special meeting
- ✓ 30 days notice required to Council members
- ✓ Ratification by 75% of Council members in attendance at the meeting.

BY-LAWS

Midwifery Scope of Practice

Policy: Continuing Competency and Professional Development

Continuing Competency and Professional Development (CCPD) is the means by which midwives develop and maintain knowledge, skills, attitudes, behaviours, and clinical judgement through a self-directed process. It is also the means by which midwives broaden the interpersonal and interprofessional skills required to improve client care (CMBC, 2017).

In accordance with the Code of Ethics and the Standards of Practice, the Midwifery Council of New Brunswick (MCNB) requires for registration renewal, all midwives to participate in CCPD to demonstrate on an ongoing basis how they have maintained their competence and enhanced their practice.

Continuing Competency and Professional Development consists of five (5) essential components:
